San Jose, CA: Santa Clara County Supervisor Liz Kniss will visit five public health clinics that receive funding from Santa Clara County on Monday, April 2nd in recognition of “Public Health Week.” Throughout the day, Kniss will stress the important role that public health services and workers play in children’s health care, preventive care and urgent care for Santa Clara County residents of all backgrounds and income levels. Kniss currently serves as Vice Chair of the County Health & Hospitals Committee and is a former public health nurse in Cupertino and San Mateo County. Santa Clara County and many health care providers recognize the first week of April as “Public Health Week.”

“As a former public health nurse, I know how important County public health services and workers are to keeping all County residents healthy,” said Supervisor Kniss. “We must remember that when even a single child at school gets sick, all our children are at risk.”
