

eDisclosure for Filers: file your Form 700 online!

Prepare and submit your Form 700 Statement of Economic Interests

- Prepare and submit your Form 700 Statement of Economic Interests online – no printing or signature required.
- If you have an email address in eDisclosure, look for an email notification in early February to start your Annual filing. If you need to update your email address, contact your filing official.
- eDisclosure already has information about your position, and will help you prepare your form using details such as your position title, start date, and disclosure requirements.
- Automatic form validation and error checking reduce the likelihood of requests for further information.
- Copy information from forms previously prepared in eDisclosure, or fill out multiple forms at once.
- Save your form while in progress to complete at a later date.
- View, amend, and print prior filings.
- Need help? Look for the blue question mark icon for instructions and information. Reference pamphlets, videos, and user guides are available in eDisclosure under “Help.”
- eDisclosure uses a secure database with user-based login. Don’t have login information? Contact your agency’s filing official.
- Visit www.sccgov.org/Form700 for a link to eDisclosure.
- Please note: if you assumed office after October 1, 2019 and submitted an Assuming Office Statement, you are exempt from the Annual filing due April 1, 2020.
