Immigrants in Santa Clara County often need to work with an immigration attorney or specialist to help them understand complicated immigration laws and requirements. Below are some questions and answers about immigration specialists and how to get the best immigration legal assistance available to you and your family.

Who can be an attorney in the U.S.?

An attorney or lawyer in the U.S. is someone who attended a graduate program in law and received a Juris Doctor (J.D.) degree. In order to practice law in the U.S., the attorney must be a member of the State Bar Association and must pass an exam given by the State Bar Association.

A licensed attorney can:
- give legal advice to his or her clients and
- can represent them in court.

Usually an attorney is knowledgeable in only a few areas of law. For example, an attorney who can help someone with a criminal problem may not know immigration law.

Are attorneys the only people who can help me with my immigration problem?

No. Non-attorneys may be able to assist you in some cases. Non-attorneys can gain the legal knowledge and experience necessary to practice immigration law.

Non-attorneys may help you by:
- Working with an accredited agency by the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA) in Washington, D.C.
- An independent accredited representative of the Board of Immigration Appeals (BIA).
- Immigration Consultants can help you as long as they don’t give you advice. The primary job is to give you information about the law.

Are there accredited agencies in Santa Clara County?

The only accredited agencies in Santa Clara County are: Catholic Charities, the Center for Employment Training (CET), the International Rescue Committee, SIREN, and MAITRI. The majority of their staff members are not attorneys. There are also non-profit law firms that practice immigration law with majority of staff comprised of attorneys. See the directory below for both types of organizations.

My friend told me of a notary or “notario” that did work cheaply and quickly.

An immigration consultant (also called Notaries or Notario) without formal training or connection to an attorney or accredited representative can help someone fill out an immigration form but cannot give legal advice. They typically do not have any formal legal training. For this reason, they may not know how to resolve a question, concern or problem with an application because they have no formal legal training.

PROTECT YOURSELF!

Beware of notaries or “notarios” who are scam artists and steal people’s money.

NO MATTER WHO assists you in your immigration legal matters, always remember to:

- Ask for a copy of the service contract.
- Keep your orginal documents (birth certificate...)
- Check with the better business bureau to see if there are any complaints filed against the person.
- Talk to a community organization about your options.

How does U.S. CIS work?

The U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Service is the agency that grants immigration benefits. Another agency within the same Department of Homeland Security, Immigration and Customs Enforcement (ICE) enforces immigration law and oversees deportation and border patrol. It has many different offices. The US CIS district office is located in San Francisco, but it has a branch office in San Jose. The San Jose U.S. CIS office covers four counties: Santa Clara, Santa Cruz, Monterey, and San Benito.

Generally, it is very difficult to speak to anyone by telephone at the US CIS and it is better to go in person. However, a person who is deportable (undocumented) may be risking deportation if they go to this office. It is safer to seek advice from one of the immigration legal service providers first, rather than going there or contacting the department electronically.

How can I immigrate my family members?

In order to be eligible to immigrate a family member, you must be a:

a. Permanent Resident (green card holder)
b. U.S. Citizen

A person with a green card can immigrate their spouse and their unmarried children.

A U.S. Citizen can immigrate their spouse, their unmarried or married children, their parents and their brothers and sisters.

The petitioner, or the resident or Citizen, must file a family petition for their family member who is usually in their native country. Because of current law in effect at the time this book was written, immigrating a family member who is currently living in the U.S. without permission or a visa can have negative consequences. Contact an immigration specialist before you file a petition for this family member.

The current system for issuing green cards is based on a system of categories and preferences. For this reason, the amount of time to immigrate your family member can be immediate or up to 20 years, depending on your status, the relationship you have with that family member, and your country of origin.
