Dear Community Partner,

The Santa Clara County Domestic Violence Council will present its 25th Annual Domestic Violence Conference The Movement Continues: Journey to Safety, Justice and Healing on Friday, October 5, 2018 at the Computer History Museum in Mountain View. This year, our conference curriculum examines the history of the domestic violence movement as we celebrate 25 years of collaboration, awareness and education to prevent domestic violence in Santa Clara County.

The morning keynote is Brigid McCaw, MD, MPH, MS, the founder and Medical Director of Kaiser Permanente's Family Violence Prevention Program in Northern California. Dr. McCaw was instrumental in starting the Family Violence Prevention Program at Kaiser Permanente Richmond Medical Center in 1998. This inspiring, innovative and effective model provides a comprehensive and integrated approach to build awareness, provide care, and prevent domestic violence. Dr. McCaw will discuss the creation and evolution of this innovative program, how it has changed the way the medical field addresses family violence today, and the future of violence prevention in health care settings.

The afternoon plenary will include an Emeritus Panel featuring some of the county's pioneers in domestic violence prevention and intervention as well as current and emerging leaders. They will take us on a journey back to the 1st annual conference and how the county responded to domestic violence 25 years ago. The panel will examine lessons learned along with current and emerging research and practices that will guide us toward a broader, more comprehensive approach to ending domestic violence.

For twenty-five years, the Santa Clara County Domestic Violence Council has produced the annual conference during Domestic Violence Awareness Month. We aim our content at a wide range of interdisciplinary professionals serving those impacted by domestic violence, including law enforcement, criminal and civil attorneys, court staff, judges, mental health professionals, victim advocates, child welfare professionals, educators and healthcare providers. Attendance is well over 300 people each year and we provide continuing education credits for mental health professionals, attorneys and nurses. We invite you to be a Domestic Violence Conference sponsor and partner with us to prevent domestic violence in Santa Clara County. Enclosed you will find a list of the benefits that correspond to the various sponsorship levels.

The vision of the Santa Clara County Domestic Violence Council is to end domestic violence in our community. Delivering the annual conference with the generous support of our sponsors helps us fulfill that vision. Thank you for considering this request. Please contact us at 408-299-5135 if you have any questions.

Sincerely,

Nicole Ford
