

WILD PIGS

Wild pigs are introduced members of the natural community and are commonly seen in county parks. They can become accustomed to humans and are a nuisance in parks when they disturb camping, picnic, and natural areas. Pigs can be dangerous and aggressive when cornered or tempted by food. Wild animals that become aggressive may have to be destroyed.

To protect both the wild pigs and park visitors:

- Do not feed or leave food for any wild animal.
- Store food & ice chests in a car or food locker.
- Maintain a clean area and place trash in garbage cans.
- Keep pets on a leash.
- Never harass, chase, or corner any wild animal.
- Report any unusual animal behavior to park staff.

What you can do if you encounter a pig:

- Do not approach a wild pig.
- Back away slowly, give the pig an opportunity to escape.
- Pigs have poor eye sight, so waive your arms side to side.
- Make noise and speak loudly.
