On April 19, 2016, the City of Sunnyvale called a special municipal election to fill an unexpired City Council seat and requested that the County of Santa Clara Registrar of Voters (ROV) conduct the election, making the August 16, 2016, Special Election the fourth scheduled election of 2016, joining the May 3, 2016, Special Mail Election, the June 7, 2016, Presidential Primary Election, and the upcoming November 8, 2016, Presidential General Election.

Voters turned out for the August 16, 2016, Special Election at a lower rate than both the previous Sunnyvale City Council election in 2013 and the most recent special election held in the city involving a 2011 parcel tax for the Sunnyvale School District. Just over 23% of voters in the district cast a ballot in the August 16, 2016, Special Election. Nearly 30% of vote-by-mail voters voted in the election compared with only 7% of polling place voters.

More than 91% of the ballots cast in the election were vote-by-mail (VBM) ballots, with only about 9% of the ballots cast at the polls. Over 80% of VBM ballots were received and processed by the ROV prior to Election Day, lower than the very high percentage of early VBM ballots received in the August 17, 2010, Special Election, but higher than in either of the other two special vacancy elections from 2015 and 2013.

The ROV was able to tally 92.2% of the total ballots cast by Election Day, 99.9% within three days, and 100% of the ballots within a week of Election Day, certifying the results of the election by August 29, 2016 – 13 days after Election Day.

This election saw continued trends toward increased vote-by-mail voting, more bilingual election officers and election officers overall at the polls, and higher percentages of VBM and total ballots being counted in these special polling place elections.

In the August 16, 2016, Special Election, just over 23% of registered voters in the City of Sunnyvale voted for City Council, a turnout rate more than 10 percentage points lower than the two prior Sunnyvale comparison elections. Among the four special vacancy elections, the 23.1% turnout rate in the August 16, 2016, Special Election is higher only than the turnout rate for the County of Santa Clara Board of Supervisors District 2 run-off election in July 2013. In all three vacancy run-off elections, the turnout in the run-off was slightly higher than in the primary that had been held several weeks prior. The August 16, 2016, Special Election did not have a primary.

Despite the small number of voters participating in the August 16, 2016, Special Election, the election process provides us with many interesting stats and facts:

- This was the third of four elections the Registrar of Voters (ROV) will conduct in 2016, the average number of elections held by the ROV since 2010.
- It involved a vacant city council seat in the City of Sunnyvale:
  - Winning candidate Larry Klein received over 60% of the votes, besting two other candidates.
  - Despite his victory, winner Klein must run again in the November 8, 2016, Presidential General Election, if he wishes to continue holding his Council seat.
  - The deadline to file nomination paperwork for the November 2016 election was August 12, 2016, four days before the August 16, 2016, Special Election was held.
  - By Election Day, both Klein and second-place finisher John Cordes had already timely filed nomination paperwork for November, as did a third candidate, Mike McCarthy.
- The ROV needs be ready to conduct a special vacancy election at any time throughout the year.
