In the 2011 State of the County Address, the Board of Supervisors announced a Seniors’ Agenda to prepare for the growing population of older adults in this county by commissioning an assessment and strategy. The community responded with over one hundred organizations, agencies and older adult activists participating in the Seniors’ Agenda. It has been so successful in bringing the community together to work on senior issues that the Seniors’ Agenda has become the fifth program in the Department of Aging and Adult Services.

The results of the initial three-year Plan of Action were presented in 2015’s annual report. The plan recommended to the Board of Supervisors that Santa Clara County should become an Age-friendly community. This year’s annual report will show how we met our goal of becoming the first County in the United States to have all its cities and the county be a part of the World Health Organization’s Global Network of Age-friendly Cities. The report will also show our progress as a pilot community for a Dementia Friendly America. Also highlighted are the new partners and new programs that have been a part of our collective impact efforts towards an Age-Friendly County for all our residents.
An Age-friendly City is an inclusive and assessable urban environment that promotes active aging. The World Health Organization (WHO) established the Age-friendly City designation in 2005 as a response to the growing demographic of older people throughout the world and the growing urbanization of the population.

Over the intervening years, hundreds of cities around the world have embraced Age-friendly ideals and are creating programs to incorporate the goals developed though the WHO. Portland, Oregon, was the first city in the United States to become Age-friendly. Today, there are 500 cities in 37 countries forming a global network that allows cities to tap into national and global research, models, and best practices.

The WHO Age-friendly process is a five-year cycle of continuous improvement. WHO recommends cities use the eight domains of livability for assessment, planning, implementation, and evaluation.
EIGHT DOMAINS OF LIVABILITY

- Communication & Information
- Social Participation
- Housing
- Respect & Social Inclusion
- Outdoor Spaces & Buildings
- Community Support & Health Services
- Civic Participation & Employment
- Transportation
Step 1: Planning Phase

- Include the involvement of older adults
- Develop a baseline assessment using the eight domains of livability
- Develop a three-year plan of action based on assessment
- Identify indicators to monitor progress
- Submit the application, signed by the governing body official
- Submit WHO application to join the Global Network of Age-friendly Cities and Communities

Step 2: Implementation Phase

- Three-year period
- Cities develop projects, programs, or policies that were positive responses to gaps in service or an unmet need identified in the assessment
- Select domains to target for projects
- Adopt metrics to identify indicators to monitor progress

Step 3: Evaluation Phase

- Year five of Age-friendly designation
- Cities submit at least one Age-friendly practice to WHO per year to keep designation active
- Demonstration of continued political commitment if change in city leadership

Age-Friendly Santa Clara County

Santa Clara County set a goal in 2015, to have all 15 cities within the County designated as Age-friendly by the WHO by July 2017 and achieved that goal this year. By working together with our partners, we continue to leverage resources and cultivate those partnerships.

The County allocated resources for the Center for Age-Friendly Excellence (CAFÉ) to provide technical assistance for the assessment and planning phase to the County and cities that wish to become Age-friendly. CAFÉ, under the direction of Anabel Pelham, San Francisco State University Professor of Gerontology, provided technical assistance and interns to assist with the process for each city. CAFÉ guided each city through the WHO process and included the participation and direction of local elected officials and community leaders.

Public awareness is another component of an Age-friendly community. Shared branding and media outreach was created to give the public a cohesive recognition and a website created with a generous donation from Michael Fox, Sr. to showcase all the cities and the County efforts and events (www.agefriendlysiliconvalley.org).
Individual City Process for Age-Friendly Designation

For the Planning Phase, each city did a variation of the basic process outlined on page 5. A presentation about Age-friendly was presented to the Senior Commission, if the city had one. The Senior Commission recommends that their city becomes a WHO designated Age-Friendly City to city officials.

An Age-Friendly Taskforce was then created with representatives from the Senior Commission and others so that composition of the taskforce represented the community. The Taskforce invited up to ten seniors to a focus group. CAFÉ recommended a minimum of two focus groups. One focus group was for seniors and one was for professionals in the field of aging. CAFÉ facilitated both groups and collected input on the eight WHO domains of livability and provided a written report to the Taskforce. In total, they facilitated 37 focus groups with input from about 400 participants.

In collaboration with city staff, the Taskforce used the outcomes of the focus groups and the Age-friendly online survey results to complete the application and strategize on possible projects aligned with some of the eight domains. Once the WHO application was completed, it was presented to the City Council for approval and signature of the Mayor. These two documents were sent to the WHO and the city was notified of their acceptance into the Global Network of Age-friendly Cities. Some cities chose to apply through the national affiliate, AARP.

Age-Friendly Survey

The Department of Public Health coordinated the Countywide Age-friendly Survey. The evidence based AARP livability survey was adapted by the senior taskforce for our community and questions on dementia were added as part of our Dementia Friendly efforts. The survey could be taken online in four languages. Each city promoted the survey through their taskforce and senior centers and provided an opportunity to take the paper version of the survey.

Four times in June 2016, a half-page ad was published in the San José Mercury News to promote Age-friendly and ask people to take the survey. Nearly 2,500 surveys were completed. Each city will be given their individual analysis as well as county-wide results.

Dementia Friends USA is a global movement that is changing the way people think, act and talk about dementia. Developed by the Alzheimer’s Society in the United Kingdom, the Dementia Friends initiative is now underway in the USA. By helping everyone in a community understand what dementia is and how it affects people, everyone can make a difference for people touched by dementia.

At the January Seniors’ Agenda Network Summit, Supervisor Dave Cortese announced that Santa Clara County will join the national Dementia Friends USA initiative with the goal of registering 5,000 Dementia Friends in Santa Clara County.
What is a Dementia Friend? A Dementia Friend is someone who, through viewing a series of short online videos, learns about what it’s like to live with dementia and then turns that understanding into action. From telling friends about the Dementia Friends program to visiting someone who is living with dementia, every action counts. Anyone of any age can be a Dementia Friend – we all have a part to play in creating a dementia friendly community.

Carlotta Royal, a work-study intern from San Jose State University has spearheaded the outreach efforts. After kicking off the campaign, the Seniors’ Agenda hosted two Dementia trainings for staff of Senior Centers. Additionally, all Department of Aging and Adult Services staff were encouraged to become Dementia Friends and the majority proudly display their certificates in their cubicles.

As of August 30th, there are 711 registered Dementia Friends in Santa Clara County, including the entire Senior Care Commission.
In January, more than 200 participants gathered at the San José City Hall Rotunda for the Seniors’ Agenda Network Summit (Appendix A). In addition to celebrating San José’s designation of as an Age-Friendly city by the WHO and AARP, Supervisor Dave Cortese kicked off the Dementia Friends campaign by becoming the first person in Santa Clara County to sign up to be a Dementia Friend.

“The Economic Impact of an Age-Friendly City” was the keynote address from John Feather, CEO of Grantmakers in Aging, about the economic benefits of an aging population for Santa Clara County cities. Feather showed data that older adults as a group spend more and use fewer taxpayer services, like schools and transportation, than other age groups. According to studies done in Atlanta and Kansas City, strategies that make the region more attractive for seniors could add thousands of jobs and millions of dollars to the region’s economy.

Keynote speaker Moira O’Neil presented on the theme of “Reframing Aging” at the August 30th Seniors’ Agenda Network Summit (Appendix B). O’Neil provided an overview of key findings from the recently published report by the Frameworks Institute on how to change social perceptions about aging.

Supervisor Joseph Simitian gave opening remarks followed by a welcome from Campbell’s Mayor, Liz Gibbons. Elected officials, staff and older adults from six cities were recognized for receiving their Age-Friendly designation in 2017: Campbell, Los Gatos, Milpitas, Mountain View, Palo Alto, and Santa Clara.

The first sold out Summit had professionals, local elected officials, students, and older adult activists gathered to learn about upcoming events and new resources available to low-income seniors.

A key element of a robust Age-Friendly city is to have the business community as partners in the movement. The Silicon Valley Organization has launched the Age Advantage program to promote Age-Friendly businesses both to their employees and customers. They are conducting a survey of their members as one of the first steps. Susan Ellenberg is the SVO staff person overseeing this new program.

County Funding for Older Adults

The County’s investment in older adults brought new funding for Age-friendly priorities. The Community Living Connection program was extended for another year. Transportation issues were addressed with money to help close the gap created with discontinued programs run by Outreach. The five cities of Saratoga, Los Gatos, Cupertino, Santa Clara, and Monte Sereno launched a pilot volunteer driver program... called RYDE: Reaching Your Destination Easily. The Bay Area Older Adult organization that provides free recreation activities received continued funding for outdoor hikes at our County Parks. The option of offering shared housing for older adults is being piloted. The Senior Care Commission’s request to have the County provide affordable respite care at the Adult Day Care Centers was funded for a feasibility study. All of these programs total over $2 million in investments.

Changing Aging Tour with Dr. Bill Thomas

Dr. Bill Thomas is an internationally known expert and disruptor in the field of aging ever since he broke all the New York State regulations for nursing homes by bringing in animals, children and greenhouses starting the Eden Project thirty years ago. Dr. Thomas brought the Changing Aging Tour to San Jose on April 5th at the Montgomery Theater. This was an opportunity to spread the word about positive aging in an unique and entertaining way. (Appendix C)

Nationally sponsored by AARP, the Changing Aging Tour presented a full day from the Disruptive Dementia non-fiction theater, followed by a lobby experience. That evening, the thought provoking “Life’s Most Dangerous Game” was offered to the general public.

Our ChangingAging event included the San Jose State University CHAMP (Center for Healthy Aging in Multicultural Populations) conference, highlighting students’ research projects during the lobby experience.

Our local sponsors of the Tour were Kaiser Permanente, the Health Trust, Holiday Retirement, and the M. E. Fox Family Foundation, with community support from the City of San Jose, Institute on Aging, and the Alzheimer’s Association.
International Association of Gerontology and Geriatrics World Congress

This July, Seniors’ Agenda was an active participant in the International Association of Gerontology and Geriatrics World Congress in San Francisco. In addition to hosting a reception with CAFÉ to showcase Age-friendly efforts throughout the county and in each individual city, Diana Miller was invited to go on air on KQED’s Forum program with Michael Krasny. Together with Dr. James Goodwin (Head of Research, AgeUK), the three discussed the impact of Age-friendly communities in Santa Clara County and around the world.

Santa Clara County’s Age-friendly initiative was highlighted in the media twice in one week; Dr. James Goodwin also spoke to a sold out Commonwealth Club in San Francisco about “How the Age-friendly Community Developed as a Global Movement.”
L.I.F.E. File

In August 2016, it was announced that there was a new “Lifesaving Information for Emergencies File” to assist first responders by providing health and medical information. In the first year, over 17,000 L.I.F.E. Files have been distributed through the Meals on Wheels program, Department of Aging and Adult Services, Santa Clara County Fire, Public Health, and Senior Centers.

The L.I.F.E File is a pouch that attaches to your refrigerator with a downloadable form at: www.sccgov.org/sites/ems/Pages/Lifesaving-Information-For-Emergencies.aspx

World Elder Abuse Awareness Day

On World Elder Abuse Awareness Day, July 15th, the Seniors’ Agenda, Adult Protective Services (APS), and Sourcewise hosted a workshop for over 50 mandated reporters and interested community members. The workshop increases the community’s awareness of elder abuse and the role of a mandated reporter and the responsibility of APS. (Appendix D)

APS received 5,000 reports of elder or dependent adult abuse and investigated 8,000 cases in 2016.
Volunteer Management Network

The Seniors’ Agenda is playing a key role in revitalizing a network of volunteer managers in non-profits especially those who serve the senior population. A core group of volunteer managers decided to hold quarterly meetings for networking, professional development and promoting volunteer opportunities especially for adults who are retired. The quarterly meetings discussed older adult volunteer trends and statistics as well as a guest speaker, John Lipp, author of The Complete Idiot’s Guide to Recruiting and Managing Volunteers.

2017 Daejeon Global Innovation Forum

Our Age Friendly efforts took to the global stage when Diana Miller, Seniors’ Agenda Project Manager, was invited to be a speaker at the 2017 Daejeon Global Innovation Forum hosted by the World Technopolis Association. UNESCO delegates from all continents had the opportunity to learn more about livable cities for all ages. This session was organized by KAIST (Korean Advanced Institute for Science and Technology).

Senior Safari

One way to become Age-friendly is by transforming a children-focused venue into a welcoming environment for older adults. That has been the success of the Senior Safari Walkabout at Happy Hollow Park and Zoo, sponsored by the Health Trust, which began its fourth season in May. For an hour on the fourth Thursday of each month from May through October, the zoo is open exclusively for seniors 50 and over, free of charge.

This ADA accessible park and zoo has hosted nearly 3,000 seniors from walking groups to residents in skilled nursing facilities. Popular new additions this year were line dancing and a watercolor class. Other continuing activities include a roller coaster ride, hula hooping, Tai Chi, and watching the animals eat their breakfast.
Next Steps

Reaching our goal of being the first county in the United States with all of its cities a part of the World Health Organization’s Global Network is only the beginning. The Seniors’ Agenda is intentionally creating policies, programs, and partnerships that advance an inclusive and accessible urban environment that promotes active aging.

In the next year, we will develop a three-year plan of action informed by the Age-friendly survey, focus groups, and Community Conversations. This plan will include measurable outcomes. As each city focuses on their local priorities, the Seniors’ Agenda will convene all the cities to decide on county-wide efforts that would benefit older adults. We will also share the assessment, key findings, and proposed plan with City and County staff working in one of the eight domains.

The Seniors’ Agenda will continue to be the backbone organization to build a strong network of professionals working with older adult populations by providing opportunities to learn from innovators and experts in their fields.
